MANAGER, DOLPHIN PROJECT MINING OPERATIONS APPOINTED

King Island Scheelite Limited (KIS) today announced the appointment of Paul Carrick to the position of Dolphin Project Manager Mining Operations - effective 17th October 2011. Paul is a qualified Mining Engineer who has worked with several of the contracting and consulting firms KIS expects to utilise on the Dolphin Project.

Paul's experience in mine management and construction scheduling for operations similar in size to the Dolphin Project will be of particular value.

Reporting directly to the CEO, this role will be responsible for all underground aspects critical to the success of the Dolphin Project - including the appointment and management of a quality underground operator.

Paul will initially work with Alan Fudge, the former Dolphin mine underground manager, on the project start-up and production planning to ensure KIS maximises production output from this high grade tungsten deposit.

The KIS Board and Executive are delighted to have Paul join KIS.
